

Kelly Kish SWWA Director

Kelly is the Foreman for the Town of Kipling. He has been involved in Water and Wastewater for 30 years between Gee Bee Construction and the Town of Kipling. He likes the industry and is passionate about making a difference in the Water and Wastewater industry. He enjoys his role as the Pipeline editor as it allows him to talk with others in the industry as well as to highlight the industry. This industry has been a significant in his career and he wants to continue to help make a difference by serving on the SWWA Board. He is certified at Level 2 in all areas. He is married to Gloria Kish who is a paramedic and breeds miniature donkeys and horses and runs the Kish Petting Zoo. Kelly runs the annual fireworks display every year and can always be found doing something for his community of Kipling. He is blessed with five children- and 19 grandchildren. In their spare time they love to spend time with their family, friends and of course the animals in the petting zoo.
